cause, locally organised and hosted by Annaleen Genade and her dedicated team of volunteers.

"We had a wonderful walk and thoroughly enjoyed it, despite a few raindrops," said Michelle van Zyl, owner of Gans-Berg News. "Luckily, the rain wasn't too bad, and the day just got better. By the time we reached the prize-giving at the Franskraal parking area, the sun was shining brightly again - as if in celebration of the special occasion!" Michelle walked alongside Marilè Geldenhuys and her children.

Franskraal's parking area was abuzz on Saturday, 11 October 2025, as Reach for Recovery breast cancer walkers - dressed in vibrant pink - gathered for a joyful event. The atmosphere was festive, with music playing and participants even dancing to the cheerful tunes. A large group of delighted prize winners could barely contain their excitement over the generous gift hampers, vouchers, and even cash prizes they received.

Young and old, including their furry companions, enjoyed the walk from the Franskraal parking area to Blou Sloep and back to the parking area. This wasn't just another breast cancer walk - it was a heartfelt initiative for a worthy

"Volunteers from Hermanus, Kleinmond, Gansbaai, and Franskraal all played a part," Annaleen shared. "The Franskraal Ratepayers Association and Neighbourhood Watch patrol members ensured everything ran smoothly, with CMC present and active throughout." Ann-Marie Lubbe, chairperson of the Overstrand region and also the Western Cape chairperson, provided valuable insights into the health benefits of eating mushrooms. Pick n Pay and SA Mushrooms are supporting the cause nationwide by selling mushrooms in pink containers, donating R1 from each pack to Reach for Recovery's Ditto Project. This initiative helps fund free silicone prostheses for individuals without medical aid.

"I would like to extend heartfelt thanks to the businesses and individuals who contributed gift vouchers," said Annaleen. "But most of all, a huge thank you to every walker who supported us - your participation means the world!"

Wêreldklas kragboot- en PWC-opleiding nou in Hermanus

Goeie nuus vir plaaslike voornemende of huidige superjag-bemanningslede en ander kragbootoperateurs: Kragboot- en PWC (Jetski) opleiding word nou in Hermanus aangebied. Neptune Divers & Cruises in Hermanus het onlangs akkrediasie van die internasionale Royal Yachting Association (RYA) ontvang en kan nou amptelike opleiding in kragboot- en persoonlike watervaartuie (jetski's) aanbied deur sy nuwe afdeling, die Neptune Nautical Academy.

Die Akademie is die eerste in die Overstrand wat gesertifiseerde opleiding in RYA Kragbootvlak 2 en PWC-bevoegdheid aanbied. Dit het sy deure reeds op 24 September 2025 met 33 studente in die eerste groep geopen. Marx Möhr, mede-eienaar van Neptune Divers & Cruises, dien as hoofinstrukteur van die Akademie, terwyl sy vrou, Makayla Möhr, die hoofbeampte is.

“'n RYA Kragbootvlak 2- en PWC-bevoegdheidsertifikaat rus studente toe met veel meer as net die vermoë om 'n jetski of ander kragboot te hanteer,” verduidelik Marx. “Jy leer hoe om hierdie vaartuie veilig te lanseer, te bestuur en weer terug te bring, terwyl jy ook noodsaaklike navigasie-, weerbewustheids- en algemene seemanskapvaardighede ontwikkel.

“In kort: 'n RYA-sertifikaat maak jou veiliger, makliker versekerbaar, meer indiensbaar en gee jou die vryheid om die water regoor die wêreld te geniet.” Hy voeg by: “Om RYA-geakkrediteerde opleiding na Hermanus te bring, is nie net 'n mylpaal vir Neptune nie, maar ook 'n hupstoot vir die Overstrand-ekonomie. Dit bied plaaslike inwoners en besoekers toegang tot opleiding wat voorheen net elders beskikbaar was.”

Benewens sy opleidingsafdeling, bied Neptune Divers & Cruises steeds 'n wye reeks mariene dienste aan - insluitend duikopleiding as 'n geakkrediteerde lid van die

Professional Association of Diving Instructors (PADI), sowel as vaarte, soos Ocean Quest-jagvaarte in Walkerbaai en binnekort ook jetski-toere. Vir meer inligting kan Marx Möhr by 071 424 3428 geskakel word of stuur 'n epos aan hom by marx@neptunes.co.za. Makayla Möhr is bereikbaar by 079 839 6945 of per epos by admin@neptunes.co.za.

Makhathini Partnership Conference Strengthens Bonds of Faith

The Makhathini Partnership Conference took place in Gansbaai over the weekend of 26-28 September 2025 - marking the second time the conference has been hosted in the coastal town. Eleven congregations sent delegates to attend. The first Partnership Conference was held in August 2007, also in Gansbaai. "The partnership is not merely an organisational collaboration, but a journey of love - a journey where we grow together in faith and service," read a joint statement from the conference. The Uniting Reformed Church in Southern Africa (URCSA) Makhathini, based in the northern region of KwaZulu-Natal, continues to stand as a beacon of hope and faith, sharing the life-changing message of Jesus Christ in a region rich in culture and history.

The conference opened on Friday evening, 26 September, with a cheerful snoek braai hosted by Rev. Dirk and Marina van Dyk. On Saturday, attendees were welcomed by Rev. Floors Avenant, after which Louis Fourie from Dana Bay, the Conference Chairperson, officially opened the proceedings. Three full sessions followed, during which several relevant topics were discussed. A dedicated Gasvryheid (Hospitality) team ensured that no one went hungry, serving a delicious lunch to the attendees. "After a very insightful conference, we realised that a new chapter lies ahead - not only for the congregation, but also for the partnership," said Rev. Franna Herselman. Now a growing and maturing church, the Makhathini congregation faces new challenges but remains steadfast in faith. Some representatives departed after the sessions, while others stayed overnight for Sunday's Worship Service, led by Rev. Lucky Kunene. He was warmly welcomed and joined on the pulpit by Rev. Franna Herselman, who symbolically presented him with a Zulu Bible. The remaining Bibles will be handed over at a later stage.

Following the service at the Gansbaai Dutch Reformed Church, the Makhathini delegation visited the URCSA Blompark Congregation, where they were formally introduced to the local church community. Rev. Lucky Kunene once again shared God's Word, with Rev. Herselman assisting with the liturgy. Afterwards, the delegation enjoyed tea and refreshments before being sent off with a blessing and a heartfelt song of praise by the Blompark congregation - a fitting close before their long journey home. "The Makhathini Partnership weekend truly enriched lives and inspired everyone involved - strengthening bonds of knowledge, fellowship, faith, hope and love," said Rev. Herselman.

History of the Makhathini-vlaktes

The history of missionary work on the Makhathini-vlaktes in KwaZulu-Natal (formerly Northern Zululand) began many years ago. Between 1928 and 1935, the Dutch Reformed Church (DRC) made several attempts to establish a mission presence there, though with limited success. Efforts were only resumed in 1971. The evangelist Bongenkosi (Bongi) Mthembu worked for many years alongside Rev. Louwrens van der Westhuizen, who was stationed there doing evangelistic outreach. Rev. Van der Westhuizen and his wife, Jeanne, have since retired. In 2024, Rev. Lucky Kunene was appointed to succeed him as minister at VGK Makhathini. That same year, with the founding of the Makhathini Partnership, the church's name was changed to the Uniting Reformed Church in Southern Africa (URCSA) Makhathini.

Bongenkosi (Bongi) Mthembu and his wife, Lindiwe.

asked me in 1991 to help build the centre," Johan recalls. "We worked on it for 18 months, and it was officially opened on 14 November 1992." Since then, Johan and his wife, Elcine, have served as organisers, leading a dedicated team of volunteers from the Dutch Reformed Church in Gansbaai's Outreach Ministry on annual trips to the Makhathini-vlaktes. The core group of volunteers has remained largely the same over the years, with others joining from time to time.

Each year, the group undertook the roughly 2,000 km journey to the Makhathini-vlaktes to build churches, carry out restoration work, distribute essential goods, and tend to the community's social needs. The churches - each 7 m x 12 m in size - were built literally from the ground up, from digging foundations to making roof trusses, pulpits, pews, and more. Under Johan's expert guidance, men and Bongi Mthembu converted to Christianity on 15 May 1999 - about 26 years ago. He and his wife, Lindiwe, settled in Kwandaba, where he now serves four congregations, spreading the Gospel. In the early days - believe it or not - Bongi served congregations as far as Swaziland, travelling by bicycle.

Lindiwe, with assistance from the Women's Services of the Dutch Reformed Church Gansbaai, qualified as a preschool teacher and now runs her own preschool in Kwandaba.

The congregation serves an area stretching between Mozambique, Eswatini (Swaziland), the Lebombo Mountains, and the Indian Ocean - a hot and inhospitable region where refugees and displaced people, mostly from Zulu and Tsonga tribes, sought safety many years ago. The region covers about 631,000 hectares, and the majority of its residents are children, youth, and women, as most men work elsewhere to earn an income.

From Gansbaai, Johan Hulme of Franskraal began the construction of the first large centre in Mapaya as early as 1991. "Rev. Kobus Kock of the Synodical Commission women alike worked tirelessly to complete everything within just one week each time. In total, they built eight churches - in Nyamane, Welcome, Zama Zama, Bhambanane, Hlanganani, Kwandaba, Bhek'Abantu, and Gedleza. Around ten other churches were restored along the way - quite an achievement!

In 2011, after roughly 20 years, Johan and his group completed their mission. During a few visits to Gansbaai, the Mthemba's and others from the Makhathini-vlaktes were treated to special outings - including visits to the Agulhas Lighthouse, fish and chips in Hout Bay, and even a trip to the top of Table Mountain - experiences they would never forget. For Johan and his dedicated team's years of hard work on the Makhathini-vlaktes, they deserve full credit. These were not "fun-filled" trips or holidays - far from it!

Pellets Power Agulhas Plains Wetlands Restoration

A new pelleting plant is set to drive sustainable conservation efforts in the Agulhas Plains district. This pilot initiative transforms local natural resources into animal feed pellets, while simultaneously funding critical restoration work in the Nuwejaars Wetlands Special Management Area (NWSMA). The pelleting plant forms part of an interconnected system that uses natural by-products to sustain both conservation and community livelihoods.

“The key to the process is biochar, produced through a biochar reactor using wood from invasive alien plants cleared from wetlands and fynbos habitats,” explains Ross Kettles, NWSMA Operations Manager. “Once processed, the biochar is blended with other ingredients to create nutritious pellets for livestock and game.”

Located in the Overberg region on the Agulhas Plain, the NWSMA safeguards natural landscapes of immense biodiversity value at Africa's southernmost tip. Its mission is to protect and manage the Consolidated Core and Buffer Area as one functioning ecosystem - an innovative conservation model on private land that also supports environmental education, sustainable socio-economic development, and ecotourism opportunities.

Restoring the Wetlands

“Biochar has exceptional benefits for gut health in animals,” says Kettles. “But beyond that, this approach enables us to turn invasive biomass into opportunity - restoring wetlands and fynbos habitats that are under severe threat.”

The NWSMA spans nearly 47,000 hectares, providing habitat for threatened species such as hippos, the African Marsh Harrier, several freshwater fish species on the brink of extinction, and the Critically Endangered Micro Frog.

Wetlands play a vital role in carbon storage, water filtration, and supporting livelihoods across the Agulhas Plain.

Tackling Twin Challenges

“By transforming invasive alien biomass into a valuable product, the new pelleting plant addresses two urgent challenges,” Kettles explains:

*Restoring wetlands and fynbos ecosystems through the removal of invasive alien vegetation; *Creating a revenue stream for conservation by selling high-quality, biochar-enriched animal feed pellets. “This investment is more than just equipment - it's a model for how conservation can sustain itself in the long term,” he adds.

A New Chapter for Conservation

The pelleting plant marks a new chapter for the Nuwejaars River Nature Reserve - one that merges ecological restoration with innovative green solutions to tackle the twin crises of biodiversity loss and climate change. “We want to demonstrate that restoration isn't only essential for nature - it can also be smart, circular and financially viable,” says Kettles. “As we sell these pellets, it's an investment straight back into nature.”

Suid-Afrikaanse Lugmagvereniging vier 80 jaar

Die Suid-Afrikaanse Lugmagvereniging (SALM) vier vanjaar sy 80ste bestaansjaar - 'n merkwaardige mylpaal vir hierdie trotse organisasie wat in 1945 tot voordeel van oud-lugmagpersoneel gestig is.

Volgens Marthie Visser, voorsitter van die SALM Walvistak, is 'n prestigefunksie onlangs by die Hermanus Gholfkлуб aangebied om die besondere geleentheid te vier. “Die Walvistak bedien die gebied vanaf Rooi Els tot by Pearly Beach,” sê sy.

Die Suid-Afrikaanse Lugmagvereniging, beter bekend as SAAFA (South African Air Force Association), is 'n organisasie vir alle range en fokus op die bevordering van vriendskap en kameraadskap tussen oud- en huidige lugmagpersoneel. Vanjaar se feesviering is daarop gemik om die ryk erfenis van die vereniging te gedenk en die nalatenskap van die Suid-Afrikaanse Lugmag te eer.

Van l na r: André Pentz (Treasurer/Treasurer), Koos Nel (Kameraderie/Camaraderie), Glenda Kitley (Gekoopteerde Lid/Co-opted Member), Johan Pentz (Sekretaris/Secretary), Marthie Visser (Voorsitter/Chairman), Judy Mieny (Welwillendheid/Benevolence), Cobus Taljaard (Erfenis en Gedenkdiens/Heritage and Memorial Services) en Christo Stroebel (Vise-Voorsitter/Vice-Chairman).

“SAAFA bring lugvaartliefhebbers bymekaar in 'n gesellige atmosfeer, maar moedig ook sy lede aan om verantwoordelikheid te neem vir minderbevoorregte oud-lede en hul gades,” verduidelik Marthie. “Fondse wat ingesamel word, word aangewend vir die Care of the Aged-programme.” SAAFA is vandag aktief regoor Suider-Afrika, en selfs in internasionale afdelings in Dubai (VAE) en Shenzhen, China. Lidmaatskap bied geleentheid om aan uiteenlopende aktiwiteite deel te neem - van sosiale byeenkomste, sportgeleentheid en spesiale uitstappies tot gereelde etes waar gassprekers uit die lugvaartbedryf die gehoor toespreek.

Lede dra met trots die kenmerkende SALM-das, baadjiebalkie en ander kentekens, en word aangemoedig om betrokke te raak by die vereniging se projekte en welsynsaksies. The Toughest Little Bird in the Sea... African penguin - our Responsibility to Act

"The toughest little bird in the ocean is the African penguin - and it's because of us that they are now Critically Endangered," says Asiphe Murivhami of the African Penguin & Seabird Sanctuary (APSS) in Kleinbaai. "On this International African Penguin Awareness Day, we shine a spotlight on a species that has weathered centuries of storms, predators, and shifting seas - yet now faces its greatest threat: humanity."

Founded in 2015 through the vision of Wilfred Chivell, CEO of Marine Dynamics and Founder of the Dyer Island Conservation Trust, the APSS was established as a purpose-built rehabilitation centre for marine birds. It offers temporary care to sick, injured, displaced, oiled, and abandoned seabirds, with a special focus on the critically endangered African penguin. Once numbering in the millions, the African penguin population has declined by more than 97% over the past century. These resilient ocean dwellers are now battling a range of threats:

- Habitat loss and pollution;
- Overfishing, which leaves them starving as commercial fleets deplete their food sources;
- Predation, both from natural predators and human-related dangers like illegal gillnets - even seals, driven by food scarcity, have begun preying on penguins, a heartbreaking sign of ecological imbalance;
- Oil spills, plastic waste, and human disturbance.

On Dyer Island - one of the species' last strongholds - the Dyer Island Conservation Trust continues its vital work: constructing artificial nests, monitoring colonies, and rescuing seabirds in distress through the APSS. Every penguin saved makes a difference. Every fish left in the sea matters. The APSS offers emergency response, medical care, temporary shelter, chick rehabilitation, the Penguin Penthouse Project, and educational outreach programmes.

How can you help?

Visit the APSS in Kleinbaai, open daily from 09:00 to 16:00. Penguin feeding takes place at 15:00. Enjoy a coffee and slice of cake, browse the Penguin Gift Shop, and watch the charming antics of penguins in recovery. You can also support their conservation efforts by sponsoring a booster block to help rebuild penguin habitats.

The bottom line: African penguins are disappearing at an alarming rate. But with your help, we can slow - and ultimately stop - their decline. You can't protect what you don't love. And right now, the African penguin needs your love more than ever.

Please remember the Penguin Rescue number, or for injured seabirds: 072 598 7117.

SUPERFLY SYRPHIDS: UNDERCOVER POLLINATORS

UNDER THE MICROSCOPE

This spring, look out for members of the fly family Syrphidae (hoverflies). As the weather warms, these bee or wasp-looking flies can be seen hovering around. This mimicry helps with avoiding predation. Syrphids are important pollinators, feeding on nectar and pollen. Another one of their super qualities is that the larvae of one of the subfamilies, Syrphinae, feed on aphids, while other species feed on soft-bodied invertebrates.
